Dutch Queen Abdicates for Daughter

Queen Juliana

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Sept. 4.—(P)—Queen Wilhelmina abdicated today in a ceremony of quiet grandeur, after 50 years of Dutch rule.

She was succeeded by her daughter, Juliana, 39, mother of four daughters.

The new queen who already has served twice as princess regent for the tired old lady of Apeldoorn, took office immediately when Wilhelmina signed the instrument of resignation.

Her 68-year-old mother plans to retire to the countryside and devote herself to gardening, painting and needle work.

Juliana will be installed formally as queen Monday at an investiture at the Nieuwe Kerk (New Church) near the palace. The ceremony will be attended by diplomats from all over the world and delegations from the royal houses of Europe.

Although the formal investiture is Monday, Juliana actually becomes ruler today and officially took over an empire of 65,000,000 people including 9,000,000 home-landers.

Red Pressure Is Applied to Germans Now

Charges of Treason Are Threatened If Nation Is Divided

BERLIN, Sept. 4.—(P)—Berlin's Communist press threatened reprisals today against Germans forgoing a western government at Bonn and accused them of "high treason."

Taegliche Rundschau, official organ of the Soviet military administration, declared:

"Every German who helps at Bonn to create a western German separate state tears the unity of Germany. Some day he will be asked to account for it."

Meantime the Russians kept up their drive to take over political control of Berlin, despite the continuing four-power talks here aimed at solving the 73-day crisis.

In one move a group of pro-Soviet political parties met at City Hall and formed a "Democratic bloc." They appointed a committee to negotiate with the anti-Communist city administration "for the elimination of the present emergency."

Rundschau's attack was concentrated on members of the Conservative Christian Democrats and the Moderate Left Social Democrats, western Germany's major parties.

The paper accused them of "selling out Germany under the Marshall Plan and politically dismembering her. The facts are decisive and they prove the existence of high treason."

While the "democratic bloc" held its meeting in the city hall in the Soviet sector of Berlin, there was no indication this was the final coup.

To the contrary, Communist press reports of the meeting said the bloc still recognized the elected city government and would continue to deal with it.

The strategy apparently was to build up strength for a coup later.

Hungry and Tired Man Breaks Window To Get into Jail

DETROIT, Sept. 4.—(P)—James Early, 22, recently arrived here from Huntington, W. Va., got his desire Thursday night.

He was lodged in the police cell block.

Sgt. Raymond McDougall and patrolmen Albert Gram and Michael McKay, at their desks in the accident prevention bureau, glanced out of their window to see Early throw a brick through the window of a clothing store across from police headquarters.

They ran across the street and arrested him.

Early explained he had been in Detroit a week, but had been unable to find a job or a place to live.

He was hungry and tired, he told the officers, and that's why he broke the window.

"I wanted you to arrest me," Early said.

He had breakfast with the other prisoners Friday morning.

Lomakin To Return To U. S., Is Report

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 4.—(P)—The newspaper Stockholms Tidningen today quoted Jacob Lomakin, former Russian consul general in New York, as saying he might return to the United States as a member of the United Nations commission on freedom of the press.

The newspaper carried a report of an interview with Lomakin aboard the Swedish liner Stockholm. Lomakin, whose ouster was demanded by the U. S. state department, is scheduled to arrive at Gothenburg Monday.

The Newark plant, which includes 36 buildings and 300 acres of ground, was operated during the war by the Aluminum Co. of America.

War Assets officials said Kaiser will have the privilege of renewing the lease for an additional 15 years. Rental will be based on five percent of new sales with the minimum annual rate set at $125,000 the second through the fourth years.

No minimum was set for the first year, but the lowest rate after the fourth year will be $250,000.

The lease, which an agency spokesman said must be cleared by the Justice Department, carries a purchase option valid anytime up to six months before the expiration date.

The price would be based on reproduction costs less depreciation and factors involving rental payments and interest.

War Assets said Permanente, an Oakland, Calif., firm, will use the plant to produce rods and bars and will install a wire and cable mill.

It said the company expects to install about $3,500,000 worth of additional equipment.

Roaring Volcano Rocks Tiny Isle

30,000 Frightened Natives Rescued As Molten Lava Pours over Homes

MANILA, Sept. 4.—(P)—Thirty thousand frightened natives were rescued today from the sulphurous smoke, ashes and lava of roaring Hibokhibok volcano on tiny Camiguin Island.

Ten thousand more huddled in fear of the mighty volcano which began erupting Sept. 1 for the first time since 1871 when it tore a gaping hole in the mile high mountain peak.

A steady stream of hot lava flowed down the mountain but so far only one man has been caught in it and he escaped with his life.

There are no reports of any American personnel in the area, except one unidentified American volcano expert who with Filipino experts risked climbing the peak today to find that the volcano had opened a new crater about a mile from the old one.

The Philippines government advised tonight that the 30,000 evacuated from the island were in nearby ports.

The mayor of Mambajao and the constabulary were advised by volcanologist Arturo Alcaraz of the weather bureau to evacuate all persons on the upper northern portion of Camiguin Island.

He said the present activity of the volcano may continue for some time.

Noises were audible due to landslides in the vicinity of the spewing mountain top. No new earth tremors have been recorded in the past few hours. Earlier the roaring volcano caused tremors to be felt as much as 85 miles away.

Whirling Arm Is Controlled By Operation

AKRON, Sept. 4.—(P)—Akron's man with the "whirling arm" says he is looking forward to a "fairly normal life" as the result of an unusual brain operation.

David Harris, 39, a brass company employee, suffered eight ago a brain hemorrhage which caused him to lose control of his left arm. It thrashed about, sometimes striking him in the face or stomach. That caused a severe nervous strain.

In a recent five-hour operation at City Hospital, a surgeon removed a small portion of the brain, in the section which controlled the arm.

"Immediately after the operation my arm was completely paralyzed," he said. "But after three weeks its strength began returning."

No longer does the arm flail around, and Harris says today he is looking forward to a fairly normal life. Today, thanks to this operation, I can really live again."

Grandson of FDR Shows Improvement

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4.—(P)—Curtis (Buz) Dall Boettiger, 18, grandson of the late President Roosevelt, is on his feet again today recovering from infantile paralysis.

He was released from quarantine at Corona Naval Hospital yesterday and immediately began a series of exercises to strengthen him for his discharge next Thursday.

Government Aluminum Mill At Newark Leased by Kaiser

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(P)—A $13,165,813 government aluminum mill in Newark, O., went to Henry Kaiser's Permanente Metal Corp. yesterday on a 10-year, renewable lease.

It was the second Ohio plant Kaiser has leased from the War Assets Administration in recent weeks. A $28,000,000 Cleveland blast furnace, one of the world's largest, was awarded the Kaiser-Frazer Corp. last month.

The Newark plant, which includes 36 buildings and 300 acres of ground, was operated during the war by the Aluminum Co. of America.

War Assets officials said Kaiser will have the privilege of renewing the lease for an additional 15 years. Rental will be based on five percent of new sales with the minimum annual rate set at $125,000 the second through the fourth years.

No minimum was set for the first year, but the lowest rate after the fourth year will be $250,000.

Gigantic Waves Battering Coast Threaten Flood

Storm Center Moves Into Mississippi as Hundreds Flee Homes

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 4.—(P)—The center of a gulf hurricane passed over New Orleans just after dawn today and headed toward the Mississippi coast.

The U. S. weather bureau said at 7:30 A. M. (EST) that the calm indicated the center or eye of the storm was over the business section of the city.

The bureau predicted winds would pickup again to almost the previous velocity after the dead eye passed to the northeast part.

As part of the city was covered by the calm, a city wind of 75 miles an hour and gusts up to 95 miles and hour were reported at Moisant International Airport 12 miles to the west.

The weather bureau said the center would also pass just west of Biloxi, Miss., before noon.

The northeast course of the storm was a radical change of direction for the hurricane, which had been expected to streak through central Louisiana after hitting the coast seventy miles southwest of New Orleans today.

Lt. D. N. Sellers, aerologist of the naval air station on Lake Ponchartrain said the wind dropped from a 45-mile gale to a calm within five minutes there.

Previously the naval station had recorded a wind of 1 mile an hour when its instruments went out because of power failure. A blow of 65 to 75 miles an hour was estimated.

The weather bureau said 6.75 inches of rain had fallen in New Orleans during the 24 hours preceding the arrival of the eye, including 4.23 inches in past six hours.

Between four thousand and five thousand persons in the New Orleans area had left their homes before daybreak, fleeing to more sturdy buildings or to higher ground.

There was a threat of widespread flooding from the gulf waters backed up by the wind into the lakes and bays to the north and east of New Orleans.

Lake Ponchartrain, to the north of the city, was rising from six inches to a foot an hour. At 6:30 A. M. (EST) U. S. Army engineers said the lake level was nearly five feet above sea level.

New Orleans itself is protected from the lake by a high sea wall. However, the waves were reported washing over an earthen embankment along the lake shore in Jefferson Parish (county) immediately to the west. Water driven in from the gulf by the storm last Sept. 19 flooded about 50 miles of Jefferson Parish, including an extensive residential section.

New Orleans city officials ordered 2,700 persons evacuated from Our Town, wartime housing project of light frame buildings. The roof of one of the houses was blown off.

Loss of the roof and overturning of several small boats in a yacht harbor on Lake Ponchartrain were the first property damage reported in this area.

About 300 persons were removed from a Negro housing project. Evacuees in New Orleans were cared for in the municipal auditorium, several school buildings and police stations.

Several hundred refugees from swampy St. Bernard Parish to the east were housed in Jackson Barracks, national guard headquarters here.

At Biloxi, Miss., John Grady, of the U. S. weather bureau reported tides of four and one-half to five feet early this morning. Just before daybreak he said the tide was beginning to fall.

Waves washed over the Biloxi seawall and water was nearly a foot deep on a coastal highway.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad was holding up all its trains on lines from New Orleans to the Mississippi coast. The Pan-American from Cincinnati and train No. 33 from New York, both bound for New Orleans, were stopped at Mobile, Ala.

Freight trains were held up "all along the line," a railroad official said.

Plane Wreck Sighted

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 4.—(P)—The wreckage of a DC3 passenger plane missing since Thursday with 13 persons aboard was sighted today on a mountainside 290 miles northwest of Sydney.

Meanderings

By Wash Fayette

During the last five days Sheriff Orland Hays has traveled 986 miles by automobile, on business connected with the office, much of the mileage being made to distant points at night, for Sheriff Hays admits that he has no "regular hours."

Two trips were made into Kentucky, one being as far as New Albany, Indiana, and during the week prior to this, he probably traveled even farther in connection with his work.

For weeks the sheriff and deputies have traveled many hundreds of miles each week, patrolling the highways after nightfall in an effort to round up some of the petty thieves who have been pilfering from farmers.

I have known a full week to elapse without a single night when the busy sheriff obtained a good night's rest, due to many calls on wrecks, possible thieves, and other matters which took him to various parts of the county.

Verily the life of a sheriff is not an easy one.

Crowd Record At State Fair

COLUMBUS, Sept. 4.—(P)—The 94th Ohio State Fair went out with a bang last night, adding 25,367 to a record attendance of 390,932 for the week. Last year's fair claimed only 346,229 visitors.

Flying Farmers were the day's honored guests, and Clifford Coffman, operator of a 580-acre farm near Carroll, was named flying Farmer of the Nation.

The Junior Fair's sweepstakes trophy went to 18-year-old Robert Kin of Upper Sandusky. Kin captured most prizes in Junior Fair exhibits.

Gordon Butterfield, 17, of Hamilton, was another Junior Fair winner, placing first over all breeds with his 1,110 pound Hereford steer.

The 4-H Style Revue title and a trip to the national 4-H Congress in Chicago went to Bonnie Lou Snider, 18, of Plain City.

Heavy Toll Feared In Holiday Traffic

(By the Associated Press)
The nation began another mass migration of holiday vacationing today with a national safety council prediction that 260 persons will be killed in traffic accidents over the weekend.

The council estimated that 100,000,000 persons will be on the move in 30,000,000 vehicles in observance of Labor Day. Over the same holiday weekend last year, 293 persons were killed in traffic mishaps, 77 in miscellaneous accidents, and 81 drowned.

The highest death toll in celebration of a holiday this year occurred on the July 4 weekend when 571 persons died—306 in traffic, 69 from miscellaneous accidents, four from fireworks, and 192 drownings.

Only three deaths were reported in Friday night's first wave of holiday traffic. Maryland, Ohio and Washington each had one traffic fatality.

Rest of Loot From Robbery Is Recovered

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4.—(P)—Recovery of the remaining $51,000 worth of bonds and securities taken in a $65,000 burglary here in 1945 was announced today by police.

Deputy Police Inspector James A. McArthur also said charges of receiving and concealing stolen property had been lodged against Mrs. Mary Toomey, 27, Clarence C. Jones, 30, Thomas F. West, 35, all of Columbus, and Mrs. Ero Rector, 43, of Cleveland.

The four were taken into custody earlier in the week and $14,000 of the bonds recovered in West's room in Columbus, McArthur said.

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert reported today a hoax that backfired led to their arrest. Mrs. Rector told state welfare and parole officers, the governor said, that a man posing as an attorney approached her and said he would get her husband, Gaylord A. Rector, out of the London Prison Farm for $500.

Rector was serving an 80-year term for receiving stolen property and burglary.

"Further investigation revealed that the original story of attempted bribery was merely a hoax to cover up the disposal of the $65,000 worth of securities obtained in the robbery," Gov. Herbert said.

Investigation in Columbus implicated Jones, West and Mrs. Toomey and resulted in recovery of $14,000 of the bonds.

Bus-Truck Crash Is Fatal to Girl

CHILLICOTHE, Sept. 4.—(P)—A Greyhound bus and a coal truck collided on a narrow bridge six miles north of here yesterday, fatally injuring a six-year-old girl and hurting eleven others.

The state highway patrol said the girl, Elsie Rhodes of Chillicothe died two hours after the accident. Her mother, Mrs. Louise Rhodes, was injured seriously.

The patrol said the bus, en route to Chillicothe from Columbus, was more than half-way over the bridge when the accident occurred. After striking the coal truck it continued beyond the bridge and crashed over a seven-foot embankment.

The driver of the truck, Stanley Davis, of near Chillicothe, and a companion, Scott Schelling, also of Chillicothe, were not hurt.

The bus driver, Paul Hickey of Columbus, was treated at a Chillicothe hospital and released.

Pope Is Indisposed; Not Serious, Belief

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 4.—(P)—A Vatican source reported last night Pope Pius XII was indisposed at his summer residence, Castel Gandolfo.

While the 72-year-old pontiff's indisposition was not believed to be serious, he has cancelled all audiences today.

School Kids and Safety

Stop a moment and think now to help insure the safety of our school children.

Again we have come to the beginning of a new school year. Tuesday, September 7th, our young people once more trek back to their classrooms. Their summer vacations were spent in various ways. Some obtained odd jobs, others helped around home, others visited in other cities and states. Many just loafed and enjoyed themselves.

When school begins we expect them all to return with vim and vigor to prepare for fulfillment of future ambitions.

Some will walk to school, others will ride bicycles, others will ride buses. Now, here is where some responsibility on the part of adults, in the new school year, enters into the picture. Don't place all the burden on the kids. Safety is the watchword. When driving during school hours around town and near the school districts we all should slow down and take a vacation from the speedy pace which we followed while the youngsters were on their vacation.

Watch for the street corners where extraordinary numbers of crossings are made. But above all watch for the bicycles. The school officials are constantly appealing to the young people as to the advantages of safety. Now it is up to the automobile drivers and motorcycle riders to further the cause.

Slow down, a life may be saved.

Red Hunt Degenerates Into Political Battle

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(P)—A top Democrat today blasted a GOP statement linking President Truman with the Communists as a "blue-blooded herring designed to distract attention from the Republican inflation."

That was the retort hurled by Senator J. Howard McGrath, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, at his GOP counterpart, Rep. Hugh D. Scott, after Scott had called on Mr. Truman to say whether he accepted Communist support in the 1944 campaign.

"It is a blue-blooded herring," said McGrath, "because it is the creation of the gentleman who once boasted that the Republicans are the 'best stock' and therefore 'should take over' the government."

Scott accused the president yes-

Plane Speed Mark Totters

By JAMES J. STREIBIG
CLEVELAND, Sept. 4.—The fastest planes in the history of sport flying lined up today for the opening of the National Air Races.

The three-day program is unprecedented in that it will open with an Air Force attempt to raise the world speed, now held by a navy research plane at 650 miles an hour.

The Air Force will use a North American F-86 swept-wing jet fighter, flying in battle readiness. The plane is rated at "more than 650 miles an hour" it is generally expected to average around 670 mph.

The pilot is Maj. Richard L. Johnson, 30, a one time chicken raiser in North Dakota, who flew 180 combat missions in the Mediterranean theater of operations.

Weather will determine whether the run can be made.

The figures are based on re-

terday of seeking to "snuff out" congressional investigations of Communists with "impetuous cries of 'red herring.'"

Then he went on to say that he wonders if there was a "working agreement" in 1944 between the Communists and Mr. Truman, then the vice presidential candidate.

To this McGrath replied: "The GOP national chairman knows that Communist support for the Democratic party was repudiated in the 1944 campaign by the late President Roosevelt as the spokesman for the entire party."

McGrath assailed what he called Scott's "smear statement" as "cheap political hypocrisy and irresponsible demagoguery." He said the Republicans are issuing "lurid statements" in an effort to "lull the public to forget the danger of high prices."

There was no lull, however, in the mounting argument over which party was to blame for those prices.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan said Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has now "openly launched a very sinister attack" on the nation's farmers. He told a news conference yesterday that the GOP presidential nominee is trying to destroy the farmers' price supports by blaming them for the "exorbitantly high price of certain foods."

"Physicians in 1947 were in the top 3 per cent national income bracket," earning a total gross income of about 2 1/2 billion dollars, it said.

The figures are based on reports from 4,878 doctors on incomes from fees and salaries. They were made public yesterday by William Alan Richardson, editor of the National Business Magazine for Physicians.

The next income of $9,884 was after deduction for such professional expenses as office rent, personnel, utilities, automobile, instruments and medical supplies, Richardson said. In the depression low of 1935, their highest average net income was $3,792, he added.

The highest gross income reported by one individual was $180,000, with a net of $86,000, the survey said. This was by a specialist in proctology (medicine dealing with the rectum and its diseases) who said he works 18 hours daily, seeing 60 patients a day. He takes no vacation, he said.

Ohio Supplies 4 Of All U. S. Farm Products

Remarkable Record Of Production is Announced

About four pounds out of each 100 pounds of all U. S. total farm goods are produced on Ohio farms, and the Buckeye state is contributing its share in 1948 to set a record for the greatest amount of food and feed ever produced in any nation in any year.

Farmers were told that food would win the war and make the peace. Since that statement was made, farm production has been kept at levels which no one would have believed possible in prewar days; and they have topped all those previous efforts by the harvests already in and those to be gathered later this year.

Corn and soybeans still need a little more time to be called safe from frost, but the chance of frost damage to Ohio corn is about as remote this year as it ever can be. Rural economists at Ohio State University predict the largest Ohio corn crop ever produced a little near record amount of soybeans.

Ohio farmers market most of their corn as livestock or poultry products and sell only a small percentage of it as cash grain. The immense crop to be harvested means better prospects for the production of meat, milk, and eggs in 1949 than would have been possible with only an average crop. The soybeans will provide a high protein feed for livestock after oil has been extracted from the beans.

The annual average farm production since the beginning of the war has been 30 per cent greater than the prewar average. With less help and with constantly deteriorating equipment, farmers in Ohio and in every other state have laid on the line the munitions which would win the war and make peace.

There is no black market nor any gray market in foods. Any citizen can buy at any retail store or can drive into the country and obtain produce at the farms. No farmer nor any farm organization can set a price on farm produce at terminal markets. The price is set by consumers, and there is plenty of food for every U. S. citizen and for use in relieving distress in other nations.

Smaller Corn Is Developed

BROOKHAVEN, N. Y. Sept. 4—(AP)—Science has redesigned the gangling field corn plant, reducing it in size and thus making it easier to harvest and less vulnerable to storms.

Dr. W. Ralph Singleton, senior geneticist of Brookhaven National Laboratory, announced yesterday that he had succeeded in developing the new stubby plant which grows to about the height of an average man.

It had slightly smaller ears but more plants can be grown on a single acre so that the overall yield does not suffer.

The smaller stalks will simplify the task of the seedman, who has to shake the tassels at the top of the plant to obtain pollen for fertilizing the seed.

Dr. Singleton said he approached the problem from the viewpoint that "it is much easier to make a six-foot corn plant than a fourteen-foot man."

There are 800 fires in hospitals and institutions each year in the United States.

Rainfall Welcome In This County

Rainfall over much of Fayette County, which started about 2:30 P. M. Friday, was welcomed generally in Fayette County, where there has been urgent need of rain in most of the county since the torrid weather started about August 22.

The rain which started Friday afternoon fell steadily and moistened the parched soil where it struck, doing the maximum amount of good and coupled with rainfall earlier this week, did much toward helping the late corn crop, soybean crop and gardens, as well as live in parched meadows.

First Corn in County Is Now Being Shocked

Only 20 Percent to Be Cut in County Reports State

So far as known Roy Engle, of the Snowhill Road was the first Fayette County farmer to start cutting corn on a large scale, and he has been engaged in cutting corn for several days.

The corn is on soil underlaid with gravel, west of Sugar Creek, and ripened rapidly after it had matured. Cutting will become more or less general within the next week.

Regardless of the hot weather and drought, a bumper corn crop is still in prospect for this community, according to many farmers, who state that the late corn, of which there is comparatively little, was the only corn really damaged by the heat and drought.

Reports indicate that only about 20 percent of the corn in Fayette County will be placed in the shock this year, due chiefly to the fact that corn pickers have increased in number, and it has been found much more economical and expeditious to pick the corn on the stalk than to have the corn cut at extremely high prices, and then have it husked at heavy cost.

It is pointed out that the fodder of stalk corn can be salvaged to a large extent by turning livestock into the fields after it has been husked.

Picking the corn also makes it possible to seed the ground without leaving space where shocks stand, it is stated.

Airplane Now Farm Implement Flying Farmer Meeting Told

COLUMBUS, Sept. 4—(AP)—America's flying farmers were told at their national convention that the use of the airplane in farming offered more chances for profit than any other activity.

D. W. Rentzel, administrator of civil aeronautics, cited the rapid growth of the airplane as a farm implement in spraying, dusting, seeding, cotton defoliation, pipe and power line patrol and cattle checking and said in a speech to the flying farmers' third annual convention:

"Today the planes engaged in these activities are standard craft converted for special uses. It is inevitable that soon we will have airplanes designed and constructed especially for such agricultural uses.

"Even now, some operators are planning use of aircraft as big as DC-3's (twin-engine transport) for weed control over vast areas of the northwest. For many uses in spraying and dusting, the helicopter is particularly suited and it is being given new jobs right along."

No. 1 Flying Farmer

Clifford Coffman, who operates a 580-acre farm near Carroll, Fairfield County, today possessed a trophy designating him as "flying farmer of the nation."

The 42-year-old farmer, who has been flying four years and owns a two-passenger plane (Aeronca), was chosen at the national convention of flying farmers. The trophy was presented by the Ohio Farmer Magazine.

The judges found that Coffman, of 15 persons nominated for the honor, had contributed the most to rural aviation in the last year. Coffman raises hybrid seed corn and certified small grains and operates a large apple orchard.

He has flown 200 hours in the last six months in the interest of rural aviation, has traveled to conventions all over the country and works with state and federal officials in soil conservation.

1948 Wheat Crop Was Third Best

Ohio's 1948 wheat is in the bin but considerable checking will have to be done before anyone will know whether the crop reaches the average of 26 bushels per acre predicted at harvest time. That average would make this year's crop the third best in history from a standpoint of yield per acre; the average in 1945 was 27 bushels and the 1946 wheat average was 26.5 bushels per acre.

Ohio's wheat usually is planted after soybeans or corn so the seed-acreage fluctuates up and down, up when corn and soybeans are harvested early and down when those crops stand till frost hits them. Buckeye farmers planted an average of 1,787,000 acres of wheat annually in the decade 1920-29 but increased that average to 2,029,000 a year in 1930-39.

Sell Lambs Early If Gain Is Steady

Ohio Farmers who turn March lambs into 90-pound top grade market animals in August have no magic method of making their lambs grow faster than those on other farms which are not ready for market until October and November. L. K. Bear, specialist in animal husbandry, Ohio State University, says August lamb sales are made possible by keeping the lambs gaining weight every day after they are born.

The constant gains are produced by careful feeding and by keeping the lambs free from parasites. Sheep can find a living on pastures which look as if the grass has been eaten below the ground surface but they cannot lay on any extra pounds on such pasture. Second growth in stubble fields after grain harvest or the second growth of meadows will supplement poor pasture.

The 10 to 1 phenothiazine salt mixture used to control internal parasites of sheep sometimes is not completely effective. Lambs can be given a dose of straight phenothiazine by using half the amount given adult sheep. Operators of custom dipping or spraying outfits can kill lice or mites on sheep and lambs at a low cost per animal.

Manufacturing plants have more than 41,000 fires annually.

"Where You Save — When You Shop"

By MAX HALL
WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—The west coast maritime strike is a major milestone in the unfolding history of labor law.

It is a test of the government's power under the Taft-Hartley Act. This is the first case in which a strike has taken place after the exhaustion of the "national emergency" procedures of the act.

An 80-day "cooling-off period" expired yesterday. An anti-strike injunction was dismissed. And the tieup began.

President Truman told his news conference that he was powerless to do anything further to stop the strike except through negotiations.

Actually, there is one more step to be taken under the national emergency provision of the law.

The president is supposed to send a report to Congress recommending "appropriate action."

But this step means little in the present case because Congress is not in session and isn't scheduled to be until January.

So the president's hands are tied, but it is possible that the hands of Robert N. Denham are not. Denham is the general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board.

Under a different section of the law, Denham, whenever he formally charges a union or an employer with an unfair labor practice, can seek a temporary injunction to block the alleged unfair practice pending a decision by the five-man NLRB.

It was under this provision that Denham got an injunction requiring John L. Lewis to bargain with the Southern Coal Producers Association, and another requiring the International Typographical Union to drop its "no-contract" policy.

The principal union involved in the west coast dispute is the CIO Longshoremen's Union headed by Harry Bridges.

Denham has accused this union of an unfair labor practice in seeking to continue its hiring halls.

These hiring halls are places where the union signs up job applicants and furnishes them in rotation to the employers as needed.

Denham says these hiring halls violate the Taft-Hartley Act because they favor members of the union.

Similar hiring halls on the Great Lakes have already been ruled illegal by the five-man NLRB.

Since the hiring halls comprise one of the issues in the west coast dispute, Denham presumably could-if he chose-ask for an injunction to halt the walkout.

Whether the Denham office will choose to use its authority is another question.

A peaceful settlement, of course, would be more to the liking of government officials. And some officials here believe there is a good chance of a settlement before the end of next week.

The employers have offered to continue the hiring halls on the present basis, pending a decision by the NLRB and the federal courts on their legality.

This is the same settlement made in maritime disputes on the east coast and Great Lakes.

Another issue in the dispute is wages. All along, the longshoremen's union has claimed that the wage issue was more important than the hiring hall issue.

If the dispute were over wages only, Denham would have no authority to seek an injunction.

The only other "national emergency" case in which the 80-day injunction ran its course without a settlement was the Oak Ridge, (Tenn.) atomic energy dispute. But although the injunction was dissolved and the strike ban thus lifted, the AFL unions involved did not strike, and the dispute was settled later.

Fair at Defiance Is $20,140 in Red

DEFIANCE, Sept. 4—(AP)—directors of the Defiance County Agricultural Society announced yesterday they would move to have a three-year half mill tax put on the November county ballots in an effort to save the County Fair.

Interest of County's Youth In Farming Shows Increase

For the first time since the 4-H clubs came into being in Fayette County more than 30 years ago, the enrollment passed the 600-mark.

And, with fewer than 2,400 boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21 years in the county, that is believed to be the highest percentage average of membership of any county in the state.

This year 639 boys and girls were enrolled in 4-H club work in the county—that is approximately one-fourth of the total—and 577 of them completed their projects.

The facts and figures have just been compiled by W. W. Montgomery, the county's agricultural agent who is the overall supervisor of 4-H clubs.

Both the enrollment and the completions, the report said, represent the highest figures ever attained here and the first time

Helpful Hints For the Home

BY MARGARET WATSON

Do you like to do things the easy way? Have you tried to find an easier way to do some of the household tasks that you do?

Here are a few suggestions which have come across my desk and I use. Maybe you have some too.

When putting new elastic in a garment, pin the end of the new to the worn elastic. Then as the elastic pulls out, the new elastic will pull in.

Keep a stiff brush near the laundry tubs. Before putting garments into the wash, turn any pockets inside out and brush thoroughly. The brush will be handy also for brushing soapuds on especially soiled places, such as neckbands, collars and cuffs.

The finger of an old glove or a thimble, placed over the end of a curtain rod, helps the curtain slip onto the rod easily without catching or tearing.

To paint a stairway which must be used while the paint is drying, paint every other step. Then when the first set of steps is dry, the alternate steps may be painted.

When packing cake in waxed paper, sprinkle the paper with powdered sugar first. This helps the frosting to stick to the cake and not to the paper.

Stick a piece of adhesive tape on the wall before putting in tacks to hold pictures. This helps prevent the tack from cracking the plaster.

Wax applied to the dust pan helps dust slide off easily; to the tops and bottoms of drawers, helps prevent sticking; to the painted surface of washing machines, helps prevent rust.

There goes... What?

Sure it's milk—or it might be a picture of hogs or any other farm animal, poultry, or eggs—going to market. But it's more than that. It's millions of pounds of soil fertility, especially lime, leaving your farms never to return.

It takes a lot of lime to build the bones in a cow or hog, to put shells around your eggs, and to supply the needed amount in milk. That lime comes out of the soil into the roughage and grain these animals eat.

Remember—you have to put back in the soil what you take out. It's the first principle of good farming.

Replace your lime losses by using our agricultural limestone.

who buys and sells a lot of feeder cattle. He sprayed the stable where the cattle on grass loaf and eat hay in "the heat of the day," and the horse flies hurried out in swarms.

As I was leaving the druggist showed me some horse flies that had come in contact with this spray. "They all died but not for a few hours," he said. "That's why some men who have been using this spray think it doesn't kill them."

"Tensite" is the commercial name of this spray. Ask your druggist about it. This is well worth investigating.

BIG SPRING PIG CROP

I just got a report of a very good spring pig crop. Eleven gilts raised 93 pigs. How's that for a crop? Good hogs fed and cared for about as well as anyone knows how to feed and care for gilts and good housing so that they had comfortable beds and plenty of exercise, are some of the chief factors that accounts for this big pig crop.

DISAPPEARING LILY
That's the name a farmer gave me for an unusual lily that sends up an abundance of foliage in the spring, that all dies down; then in August beautiful shell pink blossoms appear on long stalks, with very few leaves on them. This is a hardy lily that requires almost no attention. It certainly has a place in the plantings of any farmstead.

A VERY LARGE ONE MAN CORN CROP
"How are you getting along with your corn crop this year?" This is a question I recently asked a very good southern Ohio farmer.

"Pretty good" he replied, very modestly. "All my corn is clean and I've only hired help for five days."

"And how large is your corn crop?" I asked sensing something unusual. "Only 80 acres," he said. He thinks much of it will make 100 bushels per acre.

Wouldn't you call this a large one man corn crop?

This man has well demonstrated what it is possible to do with our modern farm machinery, if we

A MANGE CURE FOR DOGS
"The best thing we have found for mange on our dogs is sulfur and castor oil," a southern Ohio farmer who raises dogs as a side line recently pointed out.

"How do you mix it?" I asked. "What proportions of oil and sulfur do you use?"

"Oh, we just pour out some castor oil in a dish and make a thin paste by working sulfur into it," he replied.

He thinks that one reason why his treatment is good for mange is that the dogs lick some of it off, and the castor oil is a very good laxative.

VACUUM CLEANER FOR POTATO BUGS

I just got a report of a very unusual way to get rid of blister beetles or "old fashioned potato bugs" as they are often called. If the patch is near enough to the house, plug in an extension cord, put a new paper bag on the vacuum cleaner and go over the patch and pick off the bugs; then take off the bag and burn it. "This really works" the man who uses it says.

The companionship of this firm was something fine to see. We need many more such partnerships.

People Making But Spending More Money

The coming of Labor Day this year finds Fayette County and all this region enjoying a prosperous period.

Today, here and elsewhere over the nation as a whole, more people are at work turning out peacetime goods than at most any recent period in our history.

Here and there one can hear of a temporary slump but on the whole there is employment for most anybody who wants to work and the demand for good workmen, especially those who are skilled, is at a high level. Collectively and individually in most cases people are making more money than before—also spending more.

There is some belief that we are now at the peak of the postwar boom. Financial observers, competent and otherwise, by no means agree on it. Some weigh the facts and portents carefully, and come to the conclusion that production is catching up with demand, which must begin to slacken, followed by a slackening of production and finally of prices. Others examine the same facts and signs, and say demand is still unsatisfied and the only route for prices to go is up.

There are yards of statistics to support either view one wants to take about the future of conditions. But meanwhile people are working and have money in their pockets. Our prophets may say it won't last, but nevertheless this is a flush Labor Day period. If we now can learn to cut down waste and extravagance we will be far better prepared for any temporary let-down which can come.

Parcel Post, Then And Now

The advent of speedier nationwide—worldwide air parcel post service September 1 brings back to minds of old-timers the introduction of similar surface operations 35 years ago. It was in 1913, according to Postmaster W. E. Passmore of Washington C. H., that parcel post first made its appearance in the United States.

The service at that time was established primarily to aid farmers and hamlets, located off the beaten paths, in expediting their products to market and, in turn, receiving sorely needed goods from larger cities. However, mail order houses and other establishments were quick to realize its value.

Transportation facilities in those days were still slow and tedious. Motor-driven vehicles were few and the roads which they traversed were frequently impassable. Too, trains were giving off more sparks and smoke and less speed than today. There were no commercial planes in those days, either, and only the foolhardy visioned the rapid approach of this air age.

Then it took days to transport parcel post packages across the country. Some parcels were forced to go by virtually every movable conveyance before they reached their destination—particularly to the more remote sectors.

From that modest beginning, parcel post has grown to become an integral cog in the far-flung American postal operations. Its annual poundage, keeping step with the progress of transportation, has soared from a few million to billions of pounds of assorted commodities.

Still determined to employ the fastest means of transportation to move the mails, the Post Office Department is adding the link necessary to give the United States the world's most highly specialized doorstep delivery service with the launching of the new nationwide—worldwide air parcel post.

The world is getting more rational. It used to blame women for everything that went wrong, but no one now thinks of attributing high prices and bad relations with Russia to the New Look.

The 100,000,000th automobile has just rolled off the assembly lines. Practically all its predecessors are on the boulevard on which you would like to take your Sunday afternoon drive.

'All I Know Is What I See'

NEW YORK—(AP)—The westward ho progress of the co-axial cable is changing the life of America—toward peace.

Just what a co-axial cable is I don't know anymore than I do what Benjamin Franklin proved by flying a kite in a thunderstorm. But that mysterious cable goes on creeping and crawling across the land like a rampant caterpillar with no future beyond the warmth of its own fuzz.

And in some mysterious way there is a strange new glimmer in the home called television that seems to follow wherever the co-axial snake lays its length. And it is going farther across the country every day.

After watching various homespun Paderewskis of the radio dials twirl their hopeful sonatas, I can certify television is a wonderful way to pick out the tweed pattern for a new fall suit.

If you are one of the majority of the 143,000,000 American people who await the arrival of the co-axial cable with bated breath, say:

Take another breath. The thing you are most likely to catch in a television program is a Brooklyn Dodger outfielder stealing third base with Hamlet's ghost riding his left shoulder while a quiet cheviot herringbone fights with a Scotch plaid to wipe out the cheering bleachers.

The herringbone and the paid are visual static. While the host is trying to dial them out, the wise guest calls Ebbets Field long distance—collect—to find out what happened to the outfielder. By then the player usually has been sold to a minor league farm.

The greatest friends of the turtle-slow co-axial cable and its shimmering gift of television are bartenders.

They report that video—a medical term for this bifocal pictorial vitamin known as television—is a better sedative than the Mickey Finn, the barkeep's old reliable for quieting obstreperous alcoholics.

Once the television screen embraces a couple of semi-pro pugilists locked in silent anguish, the most bourbon-bedecked customer sinks into a stupor of eyeball awe.

"We haven't had a broken skull in the place since we put in our television set," said one martini

Tammany - - New York's Disgrace

Since Hugo E. Rogers has been chosen as master of Tammy Hall, he has devoted much of his time to bartering judgeships. The big plum is the surrogate, and Tammany would prefer to keep it because the patronage is tremendous. Although the surrogate's court is designed to protect widows and orphans and to guarantee that a testator's will shall be properly followed, that court can be so managed that political lawyers, accountants and crooks can, with the aid of the surrogate, take big chunks of estates as administrators, counsel and such parasites as attend splendid opportunities.

The Republicans nominated George Frankenthaler, a distinguished jurist and a fine gentleman, to this office. The American labor party nominated O. John Rogge, long associated with the U. S. attorney general's office, and although from my standpoint much to the left, he is nonetheless a good lawyer and an American.

Tammany Hall's inner conflict over this plum produced such a revolt that its leader was deposed and Rogers was put in his place. New York gangsters were seeking to name the surrogate and as that was too much for Mayor O'Dwyer, he forced the issue and won to the extent that those originally proposed were not nominated by the Democrats. His own candidate, Vincent Impellitteri, however, was also not nominated. Instead, a compromise, Judge John Mullen, was nominated.

Then the most bizarre, shameless, disgraceful bargaining was entered upon. Mr. Rogers, who lacks the adroitness of the old Tammany politicians, sought first the withdrawal of Mr. Rogge in favor of Judge Mullen, the promise being made to Mr. Rogge that he would be jointly nominated by the Democratic party and the American labor party for a supreme court judgeship, which would assure his election. This he indignantly rejected as an insult to his sense of decency. He went off to Europe where he delivered an excellent anti-Communist address, although he is running on the ticket of a party which for years has been the right arm of Communism in New York.

Then Mr. Rogers proposed to Tom Curran, Republican leader, that if he withdrew the nomination of George Frankenthaler, he, Tom Curran, could have the naming of the candidates for the supreme court, who would have both the Republican and Democratic nomination. This would assure Mr. Frankenthaler's election as a supreme court judge but not as surrogate. Frankenthaler naturally rejected such barter of judicial office as did Tom Curran.

Nothing more reprehensible has happened in New York since the days of the tin boxes, which drove the late lamented Jimmy Walker from office and brought on the regime of Fiorella La Guardia. The fact that one Hugo Rogers can go about bargaining and bartering over judicial office lowers the dignity and value of the courts.

Rogers is beyond doubt inept and maladroit but he represents a vicious system which must be cleaned out. It is the system of politicians picking and choosing judges, often for no better reason than what is euphemistically called contributions to campaign funds. Then the chiefs of contending and conflicting political parties sit down to bargain for bipartisan or bipartisan nomination of these individuals, who may be fit or unfit for judicial office. On the whole, the judiciary of New York is mediocre, considering the talent available.

This situation is complicated by the existence of Vito Marcantonio, who is violently disliked. Without the aid of Marcantonio, neither O'Dwyer nor Rogers would today be in public office; therefore Marcantonio accuses them of double-crossing him. Marcantonio supported Rogge in his rejection of Rogers' bargain, which produced fierce recriminations on all sides.

The issue now is that this man Hugo E. Rogers should be driven from public life for his cheapening attitude toward the courts. He treats them as his private property, the surrogate and supreme court judgeships being traded like cheap dresses in a bargain basement. New York takes lot but it ought not to take anything like that, even though some say that it is always done. Frankenthaler and Rogge, Curran and Marcantonio are to be congratulated that they did not become partners to such a transaction and Frankenthaler ought to be elected to keep the gamblers, gangsters, and their lawyers out of the surrogate's court.

Laff-A-Day

"Beg for it, Rev. Please beg for it!"

Diet and Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IF you are hard of hearing and contemplate the use of a hearing aid, be sure to secure the advice of a qualified physician or ear specialist before purchasing a hearing aid. It is likely that the doctor may find that normal hearing can be restored by the removal of impacted wax from the ear canal, or determine the nature of your hearing loss and advise as to whether or not a hearing aid will be of benefit.

Two Types

There are two types of hearing aid receivers: air conduction and bone conduction. Variations in tone and amplification can be obtained by adjustment of individual controls. Certain bone receivers tend to bring out the lower tones and mask the higher ones so that the voice sounds louder and deeper. This will make the consonants less clear.

A hearing aid may cause a squealing noise when it is turned on to its fullest extent, unless the ear-piece provides an airtight seal. For this reason, the best results with hearing aids—especially in difficult cases—seem to be secured when a molded plastic ear-piece is obtained.

Speech, which is the type of sound the deaf mostly need to hear, is made up of a complex pattern of sound waves. The loudness of speech is measured in what are known as decibels. The average speech varies in loudness between 30 and 60 decibels, but this is not constant because the vowel sounds are, in general, lower than those made by the consonants.

Magnify Sounds

It is the function of a hearing aid to magnify these sounds just as glasses magnify print. However, in some cases, due to the intricate nature of speech, the increase in volume may result in a distortion of the sound which makes it difficult to understand. Most good hearing aids, however, will cause no such difficulty until the loudness reaches 120 decibels.

Advice Essential For Hearing Aids

The ability to hear sound depends upon a number of factors in the deafened person, such as the amount of loss in each of the speech types. For example, some people may be unable to hear high tones, while others may not hear low tones. A second factor of importance is the amount of damage to the nerve of hearing. These things must be taken into consideration when determining whether or not a hearing aid would be of any value.

Other factors of importance at the age of the patient, the duration of the condition, whether the patient can read lips satisfactorily, and the type of work that he does.

Speech Loudness

As I have mentioned above, the average speech loudness is between 30 and 60 decibels. Those persons with a hearing loss of less than 30 decibels usually have little trouble with ordinary day-to-day conversation, but they may have some trouble at a lecture or at the theater. Those with losses between 30 and 40 decibels miss the quieter speech sound and often complain that people are mumbling. These persons find hearing aids of definite usefulness, particularly when a number of people engage in conversation. Those who have a loss between 40 and 50 decibels cannot follow the conversational voice and need hearing aids for daily use.

Be sure to consult your physician and follow his advice and guidance.

A SALUTE TO PATRIOTIC LABOR

This Company's staunch faith in the unselfish patriotism of the great majority of American workers causes us to view the problems of our day with this unshakable conviction:

Never, in all its history, has our country had such an opportunity to influence by example the course of civilization throughout the world—if we all work together.

Peoples of other lands where selfishness, greed and hatred have set back the wheels of progress, look now to America for leadership. Nations whose leaders have failed them now look to America as their only hope in a dark and cheerless world. Now is our opportunity, our challenge to a courageous demonstration of the good life possible when American ideals of mutual confidence and cooperation are put into action.

United we cannot fail

With the finest type of loyal American labor, we recognize the essential harmony of our basic aims—the protection of our precious American right to work and earn, to save and invest to carry out legitimate plans for the future of our families and to discharge our duties as good citizens.

and Chester Morris, George E. Stone, Patricia White and June Vincent are involved in the exciting solution.

PALACE

One step in taming the lawlessness in Los Angeles around the middle of the 19th century, the gold rush days, is the background for the plot in "Old Los Angeles" which will be at the Palace Theatre Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

William Elliott, John Carroll, Catherine McLeod and Joseph Schildkraut carry the story. Elliott with his friend played by Andy Devine is determined to avenge the death of his brother who had preceded him to California and staked out a gold claim. The suspense of Elliott's danger and Catherine's possible implication in the plot carry the picture to an exciting climax.

Excitement is what Lynne Roberts craves in "Lightnin' in the Forest" which is the Palace's principal feature Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

When put in the hands of a psychiatrist, Warren Douglas, against his own will, Lynn gets all the excitement she wants and more for he takes her to a mountain hideaway for treatment and there falls for her. On top of that some bank robbers break into the cabin with their loot and police surround the place. It looks dark, but the plot unwinds to an appropriate ending.

TB X-Ray Unit To Come Again

By R. J. Scott

Eagles Lodge Place And Sept. 22 Date

Another free public X-ray survey will be conducted here September 22, Paul Strevey, executive secretary of the Fayette County Tuberculosis and Health Association, announced recently.

Arrangements for the survey, conducted in the Eagles club rooms from 1 P. M. until 9:30 P. M., were made by the association in co-operation with the health department.

Since there were a number of people disappointed because the booth at the Fair closed early, Strevey said, arrangements were made for the coming survey. It will be done by a commercial company, National X-ray Surveys, Inc., with headquarters in Orange, New Jersey.

After the public survey, the equipment will be set up in the Hagerty Shoe Company by the association to make a survey of the employees there.

Progress Slow In Reappraisal

County Appraisers To Meet Wednesday

Reappraisal of real estate in Fayette County, which was launched in Washington C. H. in July by Cole, Laver and Trumble Co. of Dayton, is proceeding slowly. Up to the present time the work has been in the preliminary stages in the residential section of the city.

It is estimated that it will require six months to complete the work in the city, and several months to complete the work in the county outside of Washington C. H.

Township appraisers named by Auditor Ulric T. Acton, have been notified to meet at the auditor's office Wednesday at 2 P. M. for instructions. Blanks to be used in carrying on their work in the various townships will be given then, too.

No appraisers have been chosen for Concord and Madison Townships and an additional one will be named in Paint Township.

The appraisers named so far are:

Green Twp. A. C. Zimmerman; Jasper Twp. Fred Clemens & Grant Morgan; Jefferson Twp. H. F. Beatty & Frank Patton; Marion Twp. Coke Vincent & Otis Short; Paint Twp. Harry Kessler; Perry Twp. Robert Cockerill & Earl Johnson; Union Twp. Pete Smeitzer & Edgar Coll; Wayne Twp. Frank Carr & A. B. Clayton.

Auditor Acton explained that the reappraisal is to be completed in 1949 and go on the duplicate for payment on the new valuations in 1950.

The reappraisal, Acton said, is based on valuations of 1941, instead of the inflated valuations of the past several years.

Harry Holler, with headquarters in the county commissioner's office, is in active charge of the reappraisal in this city. He has employed a number of local residents to assist in the work.

So far this work chiefly has been confined to measuring residential properties. Work has not started on commercial or industrial buildings, Acton said.

He explained that in addition to obtaining the square footage in residence properties, that appraisers will seek all additional information such as when the house was built, type, condition, finish inside, hardwood floors, plumbing, and other general information.

Both farm and city property values are based on 1941 replacement prices, Acton stated.

So far no valuations have been established on any property, he said.

He also stated that the company simply makes appraisals, and it will be up to the auditor, and a committee of property owners and real estate men, to determine whether the appraisals are proper, too low or too high.

She was the wife of Rev. Yvo Waln, a retired pastor. Mrs. Waln took a great interest in the work of her husband's parish during her lifetime. She was a lifetime member of the Women's Home Mission Board.

Mrs. Waln was born January 17, 1892, the daughter of Marion E. and Anna Haines Fishback in Green Township and lived near New Martinsburg all of her life.

She is survived by her husband, one sister, Mrs. Elba Carson, two nephews, Edward Lee and Richard M., all of New Martinsburg.

Funeral services, arranged by the Turner Funeral Home in Leesburg, will be held Monday at 2 P. M. in the New Martinsburg Methodist Church under the direction of Rev. Guy B. Tucker. Music and flower arrangement will be in charge of Mrs. Carson.

Burial will be in Pleasant Hill Cemetery at Leesburg. Friends may call at the residence on Fishback Road after 2 P. M. Sunday.

Doliboia Held To Grand Jury

Third Burglar New In County Jail

Vincent Doliboia, 19, of Franklin, facing a charge of breaking and entering the Brandenburg Garage here the night of August 24, entered a plea of guilty in Judge R. H. Sites' court, Friday afternoon, and was held to the grand jury with bond fixed at $1,000.

Unable to furnish the bond he was taken to the county jail to await grand jury action Sept. 8. Doliboia, who was badly injured when his car was wrecked in a crash two miles west of this city soon after the garage had been burglarized, was brought from Mt. Carmel Hospital to the city jail here Friday afternoon, in custody of Chief Vaiden Long, and is still wearing a brace as result of a fractured vertebra.

His two companions, Vernon Lynch and Richard Shockley, also of Franklin, are in the county jail here also.

Outbuildings Discussed by Health Board

First reading on a county regulation for outside toilets was given at the Board of Health meeting Friday at 2 P. M. in the office of Dr. Gordon B. Savage.

The regulation discussed specifications for sanitary conditions, abandoning of out houses, cleaning and disposing of their contents.

The meeting was attended by Belford Carpenter, Clifford E. Hughes, Jesse F. Blackmore, W. E. Sollars, members of the board and Dr. Gordon B. Savage, health commissioner. Dr. Savage pointed out that although there was a city regulation of this kind, there was no such county regulation.

It will require two more readings and two public notices, Dr. Savage said. The regulation is somewhat patterned after one already in effect in Greene County.

Other business of the Board of Health meeting was the authorization of the purchase of a new typewriter for the clerk, Miss Lillie E. Henkle. There was a reading of the minutes. Approval of the nurses' report and bills for the month of August.

There was some discussion of sewage disposal in Jeffersonville but no action was taken by the board. Bids on an old sterilizer belonging to the department were read but no action was taken on these pending investigation by Dr. Savage.

Driver Held After Crash

Following a traffic accident on the CCC Highway a mile north of Madison Mills at 11 P. M. Friday night, Sheriff Orland Hays arrested E. L. Dhume, 1056 Franklin Avenue, Columbus, on a charge of driving while drunk, and placed him in the county jail here to await arraignment before Judge H. M. Ranklin, Saturday afternoon.

Sheriff Hays investigated the accident and found that Dhume, headed toward Columbus, had crossed the center line and plowed into a new Farm Bureau trailer tank, driven by William Kleine, of Mt. Healthy.

The Dhume car and the truck were both damaged considerably. Dhume sustained a fractured nose and was brought to the office of Dr. Clarence Hayes where he was cared for before being locked up. Kleine escaped injury.

'Best Is Yet To Come' Program For Wednesday Kept Secret

When it was revealed several days ago that little Ginger Prince, the six-year-old dancing and singing starlet of the movies would appear in the next performance of "The Best Is Yet To Come" here Wednesday night at the high school auditorium, it did not mark any change in the policy the producers said.

Heretofore, the program has been kept under cover until the curtain goes up on the first act of the variety stage revue. That has not been changed, Jack Crouthers of Hollywood Productions said.

He explained the announcement of the coming of Ginger by saying in a letter that "the little star has become such a sensation throughout the country it was next to impossible to keep her plans secret."

As for the rest of Wednesday night's program, Crouthers disclosed nothing.

It was the same before the first edition of the show was given here last month. A near capacity house turned out to see it and went away acclaiming it.

In view of the turnout for the first show, arrangements were made by the Washington Park Board, sponsors of the revue here, and the producers to give two performances Wednesday night.

The first is to be at 7:30 P. M. and the second two hours later.

Over 500 Men Are Registered

Start Questionnaires Out Tuesday

With more than 500 men already registered here, or about one fourth of the total in the county, announcement was made by board members Saturday that first questionnaires will be mailed out Tuesday, to the single men of 19 to 25 age groups.

At the close of work Friday, 68 men had been registered during the day, bringing the total registered to-date to 499.

Early Saturday morning first men to register during the day were waiting when the office opened, and the work of registering them got under way at once.

The office will be closed all day Monday.

Bridge Damaged On Eyman Road

When a heavy truck badly damaged a wooden bridge on the Eyman Road, a mile south of U. S. 25 (Chillicothe highway) about 9:30 P. M. Friday night, Sheriff Orland Hays went to the scene and helped detour traffic for two hours until traffic, which had been using the road as a detour from Route 35, was again turned over 35.

Repairs were made in the bridge by the state highway department as soon as possible.

Defective heating equipment caused 47,500 fires in a single year, and damages of more than $35,000,000.
